

Acknowledgements

The process of completing this thesis has involved some difficult and exasperating time. Intense effort was applied in the field with relatively low results. The statistics have been extremely challenging and in general, writing a master thesis is no walk in the park. However, I have also thoroughly enjoyed this past year and appreciate everything I have learned from it.

To make that possible, I have relied on the help of many people who have graciously and patiently seen me through. First and foremost I would like to thank my all guides specially Dr. Rezina Ahmed, Associate Proferssor of Cotton college. Under her guidance I did my field work and thesis writing side by side and she has been a continuous inspiration and support. Additionally, many other people have been essential in several aspects of the work for this thesis.

My sincere thanks go to my main supervisor Dr. Saibal Sengupta Professor of USTM for helping me to develop in final shape of this thesis from the early stages of brainstorming to last minute editing and advice. My deepest gratitude also goes to my - supervisor Dr.Moushumi Das, USTM, Department of Zoology for aiding with practical and administrative matters as well as always being available for advice and support. Dr. Rezina Ahmed was my excellent guide in Amchang Wildlife Sanctuary who patiently complied with all the requirements for my field work and kept me safe in the forest. Thank you both very much. I am also very grateful to Halim and driver Sing for driving me safely on the Amchang Wildlife Sanctuary to and fro my trapping plots. In sun as in rain they would wait for me and always take a genuine interest in my work. I will be forever grateful to Captain Boro and staffs of Best Cement for their efforts put forward into make sure my stay in Amchang vicinity area was as comfortable and efficient as possible. I thank you all for taking such good care of me, always smiling and welcoming. Please know that every meal cooked, every bed made, every leaf swept, every night wellguarded and every car ride was much appreciated. You are all amazing people.

I am very grateful to the staff of ZSI Shillong for their assistance in identifying some butterfly species and finally I am very very grateful to my family for providing financial support for my field work. Special thanks go to my husband for providing crucial aid in statistical analyses, generously squeezing me into his otherwise tight schedule.

Maitrayee Chakravarty